TIGERS ROW ON SATURDAY

Meet Columbia and Pennsylvania in Historic Contest for the Childs Cup.

While it is rather early to be talkng about the big race at Poughon eight by six lengths and a fine Harvard crew by seven and a halfmore than 150 yards in a mile and enough all around class to warrant the belief that they are inwhich it followed its startling setback

at Poughkeepsie—a victory which saw the Annapolis eight win as it pleased over a fast field and lead California, the second crew, by half a dozen lengths. It is only natural that the Navy should be better than it was in 1921.

Seven of the 1921 crew are back, and D. W. Higgins at No. 2, the newcomer, is an improvement over his predecessor. Four are holdevers from the Olympic champions of 1920. Little wonder that the Midshipmen face the rest of the season with a broad smile and an air of surgeme confidence.

We have seen Columbia and we have seen Pennsylvania, and neither would have held the Navy last Saturday. They will get a further test next Saturday, when they engage Princeton for the Childs cup on Lake Carnegie, over a mile and three-quarters. Their showing against the Tigers will afford some measure of comparison with the Midshipmen—an unsatisfactory method at best, but an interesting one nevertheless.

Then there are the eights from Cornell, Syracuse and Washington, the recent sensational winner over California by ten lengths. Cornell, we heard, is a better eight by far than it was last spring. It will be recollected that the Ithacans were beaten by the Tigers late in May and never quite recovered from the blow. They went to Poughkeepsie with hopes high, but could not beat California, which had lost to Pfinceton on Lake Carnegie.

a Severn and Cornell is to be seen in tion against Princeton and Yale over a Derby course on the Housatonic or by 20. The Ithacans are last on the and need more time to prepare for lebut. The Navy is first out, and

The Midshipmen have changed their style a bit this year. Last season the eight from Annapolis thought nothing of hitting up a 40 gait. It even went as high as 42, and 36, the limit of the rest of the field, was almost normal for the future admirals. Last Saturday the Navy averaged no higher than 34. It went at a 32 a good part of the way and certainly went no higher than 38, and that for a brief spell when it organized its great spurt at the quarter mile and wrested the lead from the Tigers.

That the 150 pound race is a certainty for the Poughkeepsle regatta was the information which came to us yesterday administered a decisive defeat, by the score of 6 goals to 2, to the picked eleven of the Metropolitan Pootball League in the challenge match Starged before 4,000 people at New York. The major leaguers had it all their way and acround for the second period with a four goal advantage. FRANKS AND FRANCS.

The first impression created by the news from Paris that Dempsey had been offered another opportunity to sock Carpentier for a purse of $\) favorable 400,000 was that Jack Kearns had been talking to himself through an interpreter. But if the Franks have nerve enough to put up that many mark men to have it all their own way and the hout they may see a way to make money out of it.

francs for the bout they may see a way to make money out of it.

The fight fans of Europe are crazy to see the champion in action.

Whether they are crazy enough to give up that much real money to see him in a bout which promises very little action is another matter. If he were to box Harry Wills they might expect to get something for their dough. But Jack at his best should stop Georges in a couple of rounds.

He also is quoted as saying that he considers Wills a less dangerous opponent than Jess Willard. Jack probably recalls the terrific stamina of the giant Kansan. In that third round at Toledo Dempsey was so arm weary from pounding that huge frame that he couldn't knock the helpless Willard off his feet. If Jess had trained properly that might easily have been a great drawing card in baseball will be a pitcher. Some slab artist will come along with enough stuff on the ball to hold an opposing club to a dozen hits or so, and bables and cigars will be named for him. Many will begin to complain that the leagues must be using a dead ball and advocate moving There will be claims that the pitcher's rubber back of second base. There will be claims that he is resorting to trickery, such as giving the ball a shot of hootch so that it weaves its way to the plate, or putting wood alcohol on it to blind the batter. But the pitcher won't care. He'll get a $500 ponus for every strikeov spend his summers in writing autographs and having his picture tale and his winters in vaudeville.

HITTING.

We sometimes wonder if all this free hitting makes as much of a with the fans as some club owners suppose. Babe Ruth is a drawing card because he hits them further and harder than any one else, but let a couple of other men-such as Ken Williams, for instance--start in making as many home runs as Ruth and pretty soon the novelty will wear off.

Any club of to-day is apt to break out into a heavy rash of hits. Once Any club of to-day is apt to break out into a neavy rash of mits. Once upon a time .300 hitters were as rare as fur on a goldfish. Now they are as frequent as scales on a piano. If a guy can't hit .300 he is regarded as a born pitcher. If he hits just a trifle over .300 they say he may be clever, but he lacks the punch. And only members of the .400 are entitled to seek admittance to the Hall of Fame of the Holdout Club.

As a matter of fact the lively ball is a great thing. They should introduce it into other games. Three cushion billiards, for example. Just think what could be done with a ball you could drive a dozen times around the table!

Schaefer and Cochran at Odds Over Official for 18.2 Title Match.

By THOMAS J. GALLAGHER.

in championship one week from Tuesday. They will play 1,500 points in three nights, at Orchestra Hall, Chicago. Schaefer, who was born in Chicago, seems to have a psychic impression that there he can play better billiards that he can anywhere else, and it was only natural that, exercising his prerogative as champion, he named the Windy City. The hall and dates were selected by mutual agreement. Inasmuch as the principals are not on speaking terms, it is predicted that the match will be a bitter contest.

The champion and his challenger are already in conflict with respect to a referee. Schaefer has objected to Levis, who officiated during the tournament last November and in the challenge match between Hoppe and Schaefer. Some of the champion's advisors assett that Levis, being a particular friend of Cochran, should not entertain a proposition to referee the match. Cochran objected to Ed Semple of Chicago, because he wore spectacles. Locally the situation became so acute that a long distance telephone message from Chicago asked if Albert G. Cutler were available. Cutler has expressed a willingness to act providing expenses to and from Chicago and compensation involving an outlay of $300 will be guare hours of the time for beginning the game the principals agree upon a referce, the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company will appoint a man to officiate. condition. Until about the middle of April he had been exhibiting in Oklahoma. Then he returned to Chicago and began dividing his time between golf and billiards. Two weeks ago he settled down to hard work at billiards. He is practicing at Leffingwell's on the North Side. Cochran was in Chicago but went to St. Louis to practice with Bensinger that Roger Conti, the young French professional player who was Schaefer's exhibition partner last winter, is temporarily relieved from military duty. He will, however, have to report for examination next February or March. Meanwhile he will return to the United States in September. He is the next in line to challenge for the world's champlonship. If Cochran defeats Schaefer, the French expert will probably challenge. He will not tackle Schaefer, of whom he says: "He is the test."

There is a probability that next winter there will be two billiard tournaments, one at the pocket game and another at three cushions. Ralph Greenleaf won the pocket trophy it Philadelphia November 5. He must defend it against all challengers for one year before it can become his personal pronerty. In challenge matches he has already defended it against Woods, Hueston and Franklin. The next eligible to challenge is Benny Allen of Kansas City. If he challenges the match will be played next September or October.

At Pittsburgh, October 19, August be played next September or October.

At Pittsburgh, October 19, August Kleckhefer won the national three cushion championship. On December 5, following, John Layton acquired the title. Since then Layton has defended it against Alfredo de Oro and Charles McCourt. If he wins one more championship the emblem will become his personal property. Possible challengers are Heal, Weston, Denton and Cannefax, in the order of naming. If Greenleaf and Layton retain their titles for the specified periods, tournaments to in-

Champ Leaves Paris Just as

"Well, we may have to fight in Paris yet," said Dempsey to-day, referring to Verande's offer. The French sporting writers and boxing experts are skeptical, however, that the bout can be successfully staged here. They express the fear that it would be impossible to obtain receipts aggregating 4,000,000 france, especially in Pershing Stadium, as it will accommedate only 50,000 persons, which would mean that the price of scats would average around 100 france.

Dempsey is leaving France just as he is commencing to improve his French.

Dempsey is leaving France just as he is commencing to improve his French. He was heard several times to-day asking "Combien?" ("How much?") of the hotel help. The retainers appeared fully to understand the champion, as most of his talking was done when his hands were not empty. The hotel servants say they are sorry that Dempsey is going away. As for Dempsey himself, he has greatly enjoyed his stay in Paris and would have liked to remain until Tuesday. But Kearns's instructions to come to London immediately appear to have been imperative.

It had been the intention of Dempsey to purchase a number of gifts here for
